SCHOOL REPORTS

The time has come in progressive educational methods when the grinding out of examination marks and the reverential recording of them on a monthly report card, as a link between teacher and parent, has gone by the board, along with other antiquated pedagogical charms. Today the function of the teacher has risen high above the level on which he used to presume to be able to measure the uncanny workings of the child mind in terms of simple figures and report to the parent, that Johnny's mental activity this month was 67 and Sadie's was 68, and that therefore Sadie stands first in her class. The scrapping of this relic of the pedagogy of by-gone days has, of course, one lamentable feature for Sadie's mother will no longer be able to gloat over her daughter's intellectual superiority, at sewing circles and afternoon teas.

However, it will be the policy of the present staff of the Crossfield school to issue two progress records per school year for each pupil; one at Christmas and one at Easter, as well as a statement of promotions in June. In addition to these two reports, which will be issued for the information of the parents, the Principal will confer with the parents personally in all cases which require more than ordinary effort and concern.

Hereafter the progress of all pupils will be reported as being in the Honours class, A class, B class, or C class - the latter being unsatisfactory and not warranting promotion.

W. K. GISH, Principal

Recipe for a Day.

Take a dash of cold water
A little leaven of prayer
A little bit of sunshine gold
Dissolved in morning air,
Add to your meal some merriment,
And a thought for kith and kin
And then, as a prime ingredient
A plenty of work thrown in.
But spice it all with the essence
Of love,
And a little whiff of play
Let a Wise old Book and a glance above,
Complete a well spent day.

Board of Trade Annual Meeting Postponed

The annual meeting of the Crossfield and District Board of Trade has been postponed and will be held Wednesday next, March 29th, at which the President will give the yearly report of the activities of the organization, and the election of officers will also take place.

The Board of Trade forms a very vital part of the life of the community and everyone in the district should take a deep interest in the activities.

The Board realizes the importance of farming to the welfare of the community and has done much good work along this line.

Business goes where it is invited and stays where it is made welcome.

CANADIAN LEGION B.E.S.L. CROSSFIELD BRANCH

All returned soldiers organizations offered there services to the government should a crises occur and it has been considered that registration of all who had seen service, would be a great help towards that end.

If you have not been registered by your local branch please call on R. D. Sutherland who has the necessary forms.

C.D.S. News.

It is with a feeling of real regret, that through unfortunate circumstances we are forced to announce the indefinite postponement of the play, under rehearsal for presentation in the near future. We hope to make a new definite announcement shortly.

Unity Movement Meeting To Be Held in Crossfield

At a meeting of the committee of the Unity Movement in the Cochrane Constituency, held in Calgary Saturday last, March 11, a number of meetings were arranged for, to take place during the latter part of this month, throughout the constituency. The date decided upon for a meeting in Crossfield was Friday next, March 24th at 2:30 p.m. sharp, to be held in the U.F.A. Hall, where Mr. John I. McFarland, leader of the Unity Movement, will be the principal speaker.

Community Sale Next Week Saturday

Next week Saturday, March 25th, is the date which has been set for Crossfield's ninth annual community sale. Many items have already been listed and there is room for more. Come out and make this annual event one that will long be remembered in Crossfield.

Posters will be out, and all you have to do is bring your listings to Messrs. T. Tredaway or W. L. Shantz, and Auctioneer A. Boyce will do the rest.

Hutterite Colonists Buy Huser Farms

A colony of Hutterite brethren from Strathmore completed a deal Friday last, whereby they have become owners of the Huser Farms, east of town. Mrs. E. K. Mitchell, who had been spending the winter in Honolulu returned to make the sale.

We understand these people have been dealing with Mr. F. Collicutt, for the purchase of his ranch, west of town.

Ladies Curl at Calgary

Four rinks of lady curlers, comprising Mesdames. Wood, Ballam, Devins, Fleming; Stevens, Irene Hesketh, Pat Waterhouse, Wilda Laut; McMillan, Tredaway, Belshaw, Anne Cameron; Carmichael, Mary Murdoch, Winnie Tredaway, Edlund, motored to Calgary Wednesday morning and curled in the 'spiel at the North Hill Club.

School Fair Notes.

The Annual Meeting of the Crossfield District School Fair Association will be held in the Fire Hall, at 2:00 p.m., on Friday, March 24th. It is urged that each school belonging to the association send at least one delegate to this meeting, and any interested are invited to attend.

This year, more than ever, the School Fair will need Your support, as the Large Units having taken over from the School Districts, leaving them with no cash to pay fees, and the Divisional Boards not being able to pay as large an amount as has been obtained from the local Boards.

We have just received the report of all School Fairs held in 1938, and find that Crossfield was well above the average, both in number of entries and attendance, and there is no reason why we cannot maintain that standing in the future.

Teachers and pupils should note that Class 92 has again been changed, and to a "Water Booklet" or "Earth Science Booklet", as announced in last week's paper, can now be added "A booklet on any subject as outlined in the Course of Studies for Grades 7 and 8."

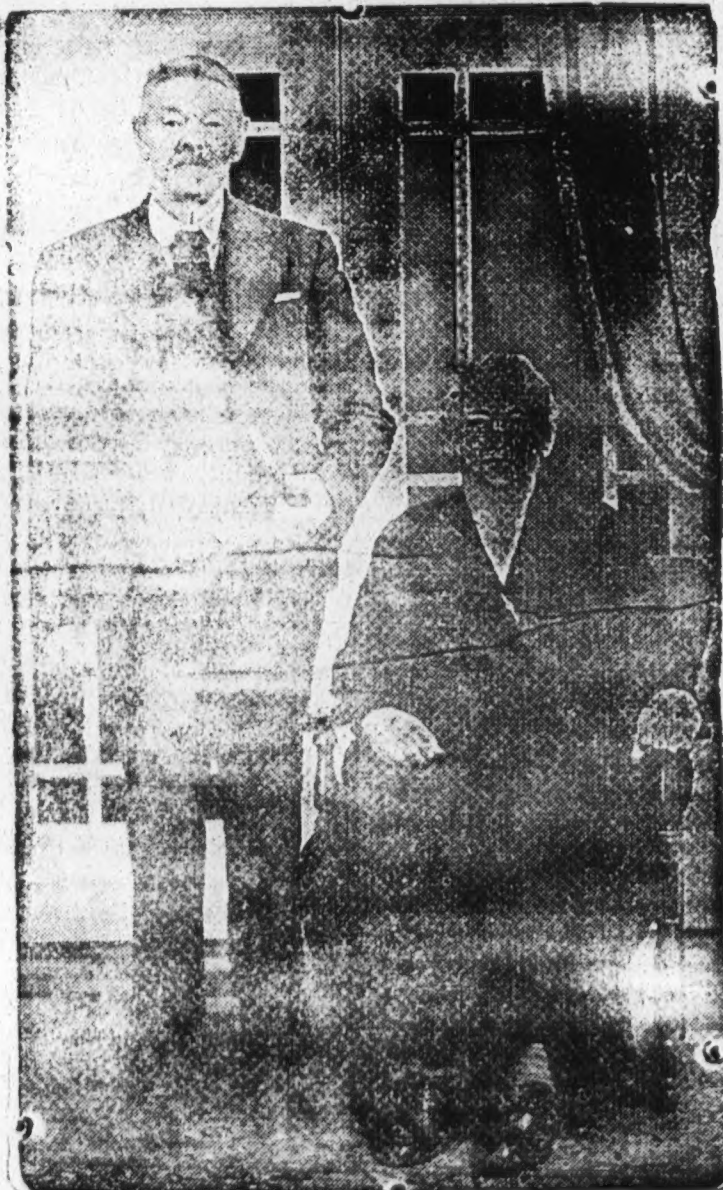

Also please note that to win the Short Course Scholarship at the Olds School of Agriculture, you must obtain at least 50 points to be eligible. In the past boys and girls have won this with less than that number, but at other fairs some pupils have had as high as two hundred points and over.

There are still some teachers who have not sent in the seed lists, and if these are not received very soon they will be too late, so send them in without any further delay.

F. Collicutt Ships Two Carloads Cattle

F. Collicutt shipped two carloads of purebred Hereford cattle Wednesday, comprising a herd of 2-year old animals, to Kamloops, B. C.

We understand this is the 21st annual sale at Kamloops, and Mr. Collicutt has contributed to this sale every year since it started.

CROSSFIELD, THURSDAY, MARCH 16, 1939

R A T S.

A UNIVERSITY of Michigan psychologist, Norman Maier, has found that rats, when faced by an insoluble problem, are subject to severe nervous breakdown, and from this fact a human moral may be drawn. Professor Maier constructed two boxes, laid on their sides, the opening to which are two pieces of cardboard, one plain white and one marked with a black circle. Behind the one marked with a circle he placed food, and after several days the rat subject to the experiment found that by knocking down the right cardboard he was rewarded by food. After the rat had learned to knock down the right cardboard to get his supply of food, the Professor suddenly changed the food to the other box. The rat, guided by habit, persistently jumped at the same door, as before, but finding no food, grew more and more nervous, and finally being unable to solve the problem of how to get his food went into a nervous breakdown, racing around his cage in bewilderment, and finally going into a coma.

This action of the rat, who learned to find his food in one certain way, and then had his means of livelihood upset, which produced extreme mental disorder, might be a clue to the huge increase of mental insanity among Canadians during the past few years of depression, when thousands lost their normal way of earning a livelihood and were up against an insoluble problem of how to earn a living.

It also points to the fact that security is probably the most valuable asset in this modern topsy-turvy world. A secured source of income, even if that income is not so very large, is far better than an insecure income far larger. Take, for instance, the merchants in a small community; they may not make as much money as their more prosperous brethren in the city, but year after year they are to be found in the same small town, living a contented life, knowing that their livelihood, if not sufficient to give them every luxury, is at least secure, and they do not have to have many worries for the future. On the other hand the large city merchant, probably financed by stock or by the bank, and who in most cases does not own his own stores, is subject to the financial ups and downs that so rapidly effect business. He may be doing a great business one month, and then comes a change of conditions, a period of depression, and he is no longer able to pay interest on his loans, or the high rents on his stores, which were set in the days of prosperity. Consequently he is soon bankrupt and looking for a chance to earn a living elsewhere. He is like the rat, who is suddenly robbed of his livelihood. And we know by the number of suicides that occurred when the stock market collapsed in 1929, how this sudden loss of livelihood and wealth can effect men's sanity.

The men most likely to avoid the fate of the rat are the men on the farms, and in our small towns and villages, who may not enjoy every luxury in life, who may not earn huge incomes, and who may run into debt, but year in and year out they live a comparatively contented peaceful life.

SCHOOL TEACHERS' PENSIONS

An Act providing for pensions for school teachers is going through the legislature. It provides that three per cent be deducted from teachers' salaries and a similar amount be provided by school boards, the total of which sums will be sufficient to provide a pension when a specified age is attained.

For the most part teachers are not overpaid. This is particularly true of teachers in rural schools. When it comes to the end of a teacher's career few of them have very much to show for the years of effort, struggling to 'inoculate' annual crops of young fry with germs of intelligence.

But the teachers should not overlook the fact that the three per cent contributed by the school boards is an additional tax which must be borne mostly by the farms. And no one ever talks of old age pensions for farmers.

GOVERNMENT AUTOMOBILES

Wasn't there some scandal about the U F A. government buying a few automobiles, back in 1935? The people were aroused to a fighting pitch because six cars were bought. Even Mr. Aberhart joined in the general condemnation.

In the past year the Aberhart government bought 28 new cars. Among them were automobiles for the use of: Premier Aberhart, Hon. N. E. Tanner, Hon. Solon Low and Hon. Lucien Maynard.

Surely if it was an evil thing to buy cars in 1934 it is equally as bad to buy them in 1938!

The great to-do made about the 1934 purchases is completely forgotten and the new government finds it needs cars to transact its business and carry its premier and cabinet ministers around, just the same as did the previous government.

After all, the public mind is not noted for its feats of memory and the dim, dead past can easily be interred in musty archives.

COMMUNITY SPIRIT

Commune derived from the Latin word "Communis" in its most general sense means a group of persons acting together for the purpose of self government especially in Towns. Community spirit may therefore be defined as meaning the spirit which motivates a group of persons acting together for the benefit of the community. It is a thing apart from politics and has nothing to do with the social theories of Communism.

A Town minus the proper community spirit labors under terrible handicaps. There are such places in Alberta and they are not nice places in which to live. They are made so by the people or some of the people who inhabit such communities. It is there where petty jealousies, likes and dislikes, family feuds, destructive gossip, and business above all else, kills the spirit lying dormant in most human beings. Communities such as these are responsible for the expression "Small Town Stuff" and it has its significance.

In this respect this community has been fortunate and no better example, among the many available, of its existence may be had than in the effort put forth this week to effect a worthwhile community enterprise and improvement—an enterprise made possible only through the whole-hearted cooperation of the townspeople, not the least of whom may be listed the men who have laboured long and hard for scant remuneration at back-breaking work just to see the thing through.

The sight of seeing so much done in the face of so many apparently insuperable difficulties restores one's confidence immeasurably in the good qualities of the majority of our fellow men.

you deposit money in a treasury branch and draw it out again." I'll answer that by quoting from the booklet, "How to Use Treasury Branch," Page 1, paragraph 2, under Current Accounts:

"Deposits of cash, or of demands on cash, such as cheques, grain tickets and Treasury Branch Orders can be freely withdrawn by depositors to the full amount as deposited, either in cash or by Treasury Branch Orders."

I might explain here that a branch order is not a transfer voucher but an order for cash.

Safe Farrowing.

Alberta farmers generally are developing their pig business more intensively than ever before. The evolution from one late spring litter, through the three litters in two years stage, to the two litter per year system of pig raising, is making the necessity for safe farrowing accommodation more definite than before, when last year's strawstack stood for an indicator of feed in the bin and a maternity home for the late spring litters.

But "strawstack farming" is going and the bacon hog business will be the better for more intensive application to the two litter per year system, and making the most out of the brood sow capital on hand. Two litters per year means that one litter must come early too soon after the New Year to warrant placing confidence in the strawstack, a stall in the horse stable, or any old outhouse, as safe farrowing accommodation. When half a dozen or more brood sows are kept, it is imperative that every care be taken to save their litters, and half a dozen brood sows will well justify the expense of providing special farrowing accommodation.

Comparatively inexpensive types of Hexagonal and Octagonal "pig brooders" have now been tested by Alberta farmers for periods as long as five years and found quite satisfactory. The Hexagon will carry six sows and their litters through to weaning and the Octagon accommodates eight sows to weaning; but the most economical and generally satisfactory way to handle ten to a dozen brood sows and their litters is to provide a six pen Hexagon "pig-feeder" for safe farrowing, and four to six colony houses where the earlier litters can go (even in February) for a month before weaning and remain until marketed. Not only are the colony houses portable, but the Hexagonal six-pen house is readily built portable enough to move on skids (from a rented farm if needs be.)

The "pig brooder" idea is to be found working out in a number of places from Fort Saskatchewan to Vulcan with various types of construction and a little artificial heat being used in each case.

The six-pen house at a cost of a little over Two Hundred Dollars for Lumber (exclusive of Hardware, and the 500 chick coal burning Brooder Stove that ensures the comfort), used in conjunction with the outside colony houses, will fill the requirement of a bigger than average pig business.

The Atlas Lumber Co. Ltd. which investigated the progress of the "pig brooder" idea in practice since W. C. Lester of Keema built the first Hexagonal type five years ago, is now prepared to assist farmers with plans and specifications for the simplest design of this kind.

RADIO OPINIONS AND NEWS by F. E. Fleming PUBLICITY DEPARTMENT CFAC

WITHOUT A SHIRT

Who says listeners aren't a kind-hearted lot? An Innisfail listener recently came to the aid (?) of Gail Egan, CFAC's sports commentator, by presenting him with what seemed a dire necessity at the time.

The whole incident would never have happened if Gail hadn't done a little crystal-gazing on the "Sportcycle" in connection with the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap. On the day of that great race, Gail in the role of Swami or somebody, looked into the future and proclaimed that the winner of the racing classic would be a horse called "Gosum." Mind you, he didn't say merely that he thought that nag would romp over the finish line first; he gave a number of very good reasons why such an event would occur. The prediction was an excellent one—except that the horse lost.

A little gentle ribbing was inevitable, and the following Monday Jack Dennett introduced the racing seer as "Gail Egan, ace sports commentator for CFAC, but the world's worst picker, the man without a home or a shirt to his back." Gail retaliated by blessing the lack of television which would have shown him shivering through his sports broadcast sans shirt.

And here is where the generosity of one listener must be acknowledged. An Innisfail listener, who remains anonymous, wrote that he depended on the "Sportcycle" daily for his sport news, and the very least he could do would be to prevent any threat of pneumonia and a consequent loss of the "Sportcycle." And so he forwarded to Gail, a white broadcloth shirt, neatly laundered and ready to do service for the poor, shivering commentator!

The World of Wheat.

By H. G. L. Strange

A notable has once again been won by Canadian Agricultural Scientists over the destructive forces of nature.

Another valuable rust-resistant wheat has been released:—No. 975.1, which will now reign under the royal name of Regent.

The variety is a Canadian product having been bred, selected, and tested by the Dominion Rust Research Laboratory, Winnipeg, in co-operation with the Dominion Experimental Farms, our Canadian Universities and the National Research Council.

About 1,400 bushels only are available, which quantity is now being distributed to a large number of farmers who, some time ago, applied for it.

The announcement about Regent is made in Winnipeg. This is appropriate because the wheat was bred in Winnipeg, and the very first practical step, too, in the Canadian fight against rust was taken in Winnipeg in 1917 by the spectacular removal by the Parks Board of 3,000 Barberry bushes.

I venture, therefore to propose that the City of Winnipeg should set a special day apart to celebrate this great victory over rust, so that we all can publicly pay a tribute to those talented scientists who have added so greatly to the income of our farmers, and who have added consequently to the wealth of all people in Canada.

Following factors have tended to raise price: Spain takes considerable quantities of Argentine wheat—Indian rice crop much smaller than last year—Isoca grub damaging Argentine corn crop—Spain expected to buy fair quantities of Roumanian wheat—Small surplus in Russia and Balkans—Unfavorable rains may delay Argentine corn harvest.

Following factors have tended to lower price: Spring sowing underway in Europe—Tunisia pressing offers of Durum wheat favorable South African corn prospects—Argentine corn abandonment less than anticipated—Slight upward revision of Australian wheat estimate—Indian wheat conditions improve and estimates raised—Rumors that Governmental price assistance to Canadian wheat will be discontinued.

Crossfield, March 13
Editor Crossfield Chronicle.

Since my letter of previous date was published, I have been asked a few questions with regards to the use of Treasury Branch Vouchers.

With your permission I would like to answer some of those questions through the columns of your valuable paper. As I stated in my previous letter that a continuous and insistent demand for Alberta-Made goods would result in more employment for Alberta workers, which in turn would improve the home market and benefit the people as a whole; and, as I stated, this could be done with the use of a transfer voucher. I have since then been asked: "How can this be done with vouchers any more than with any other money?" Now first let me point out that I didn't say it could not be done with money, I said it could be done with transfer vouchers. No doubt it could be done with money but the fact remains that it isn't being done.

There are two reasons why it is not being done with present money. First reason is that the money distributed in a community never equals the real wealth created in that community, and the second reason is that the money or purchasing power that is distributed in a community, is allowed to drift out. According to the Federal Government, the Supreme Court of Canada and the Privy Council, it is not within the jurisdiction of a community or even a province to correct the first wrong, but it is within the competence of the people of a community to do a lot towards correcting the second. As an example we will take two persons we'll call one No. 1, the other No. 2. No. 1 owes No. 2 $10.00, he pays him with a ten dollar bill, what happens? Well the chances are No. 2 will send an order to a mail order house in Winnipeg, Toronto, or Montreal, and as very little if any of the goods handled by the mail order house is purchased in Alberta, there is very little likelihood of any part of that ten dollars ever coming back; so the community is deprived of the use of that purchasing power. It not only loses that first sale but all other succeeding transactions that could have been made with that ten dollars. Now if the debt is paid

Crossfield, Alta
Feb. 21st, 1939.

To the Editor of the Crossfield Chronicle.

Dear Sir:

In the report of the Annual Meeting of M. D. Rosebud No. 280, you state a balance of $21,420.64 was shown. If this was so why did the Municipality not pay these two loans on page 9 of the Auditor's Statement, and thus save paying more interest to the bank in which they have $21,420.64 deposited. When we changed from Local Improvement to Municipal Districts we were assured such matters would be attended to. School Administration is as much a department of the Municipality as Public works is. These 25 School Districts requested $20,750.25 and they got it, but in 1938 they paid in taxes collected, $25,851.48 in penalties $1,677.02, and in interest $1,871.92, in all the School Districts paid $8,660.17 in 1938 more than they got to run their schools and were still left with a loan of $10,000 to pay. Had these loans been paid interest would have stopped and a balance of $3,770.64 would still have been left on deposit in the bank, and the transfer of the schools to the larger Unit made on a debt-free basis, and nobody would have been hurt. As it is now the schools are being transferred to the Larger Unit with a $10,000 handicap, and seed grain not paid for, which is the other loan of $7,650.00.

Yours sincerely

A RATEPAYER.

With a transfer voucher the purchasing power will stay within the province, insistent demanding Alberta Products which will reflect back to each community which will be producing that which it is best adapted to. There are certain sections of the press which, while strongly opposed to the government of the province, admits that the scheme would work if given co-operation. One is moved to wonder why (after admitting that it will work with co-operation) the co-operation is withheld obviously the interest of that particular section of the press is not in Alberta. To go a little farther, in all districts of the prairies, there is one pay off per year, that is after harvest for a short time following the pay-off, business is good; probably for six weeks or two months; then it dwindles down until it is practically at a stand still; the common expression then is that nobody has any money. The same two reasons apply here, the money distributed did not equal the wealth created and what was distributed has all gotten away from the community.

It is noticeable that in all towns the size of Crossfield, (I've been in quite a number of them) there is always a strong urge on the part of some to patronize your home town and local merchants, and in most cases (and possibly Crossfield is no exception) those who do the urging are themselves the worst transgressors. It is a fact that in all towns there are a certain number who are on a permanent salary and who can enjoy a fair standard of living; if these do not patronize the local merchant, it places him in a position of having been deprived of those who would be his best customers so he must cut his overhead to the limit. He usually starts by lowering the salary of his clerks or laying them off altogether. This of course aggravates rather than solves the problem, so he must do something else. One choice is to go out of business to do that means to lose all his toil and effort in building up his business, which is not pleasant (but it is final) because a man who goes out of business nowadays has very little chance of getting back in again. There is only one other choice left, is to raise his prices to meet his overhead, and when he does that those with the small amount of purchasing power are driven to deal where they can get the most for their money. This may seem to be away from the point but really it isn't, I am trying to point out that the co-operation required for the welfare of any community must be active as well as verbal. In other words, don't urge people to patronize their community with advice and drive them from doing it with actions.

The other question was, "Can (see page 5, column 1)

Twenty Tons of Voice

(Photograph from Northern Electric Co. Ltd.)

ENGINEERS of the Bell System supervise their streamlined creation as finishing touches are put on the twenty-ton, multi-voiced sound reproducer which, with a moving speaker system will serve as a corps of "private guides" to visitors touring the General Motors "Highways and Horizons" exhibit at the New York World's Fair. In the machine, 150 equally spaced photoelectric cell devices scan a motion picture film at the same time throughout its length. Thus 150 different parts of the same story are being told separately, at once. Moving cars, in the exhibit, carry spectators before a model panorama of tomorrow's highway system. Each car is equipped with speakers which give a perfectly synchronized description of the exact scene before which the visitor is passing. This is said to be the most intricate sound instrument of its kind ever developed.

NEW SHOW COMMENCES OVER CFAC

The popular Prexy of KLING-KOTE College, in the person of Geo. C. Waight, will be back on the air with a new series of Braintwisters for a third season over CFAC, commencing Wednesday, March 22nd, 8:00 to 8:30 p.m.

Arrangements have been completed to extend this half-hour audience participation program over the entire CBC Prairie Regional Network.

DR. QUERRY and his Braintwisters enjoy a wide range of listeners, both on the Air and in the Winnipeg Theatre from which the visual broadcast originates.

Assisting DR. QUERRY in his Weekly Braintwister examination of five volunteer candidates will be Brian Hodgkinson, CKY Staff Announcer, who will serve on the faculty of KLING-KOTE College.

A popular feature of the new DR. QUERRY series will be a Weekly set of questions dealing with "Up-to-the-Minute" News, in which candidates are quizzed on their knowledge of current news events.

Dick Powell, singing idol of the screen, who replaces Al Jolson on the Tuesday night program, has his troubles with the signature hunters who go to great lengths to add his name to their collections. Powell doesn't mind it the least, for he knows that as long as fans clamor for him, he is entertaining and pleasing them.

FIBBER LOVES FILM CAPITAL BUT HE'S STILL SMALL TOWN GUY

Mindful of the fact that you can take the boy out of the country but you can't take the country out of the boy, Fibber McGee, after several weeks in Hollywood, says that he still prefers the homelier elements represented in Wistful Vista, the mythical town of his broadcasts, soon to be heard over CFAC from the NBC-Red Network.

"Hollywood certainly is a town that's built on show business," Fibber observed. "It's even hit the parking lots out here. I noticed a big sign on one of the lots which read: 'Read Your Contract Before Leaving.' But if I see any trace of Hollywood—it is touching our show, I'm going to get right into the old hair shirt. I don't think the folks would like us if we 'went Hollywood.' We're small town folks at heart, and glamour would be as out of place on us as false eyelashes on Mickey Mouse.

King George VI

A HISTORY IN THIRTY
CHAPTERS

CHAPTER FOURTEEN
"Our country's welfare is our first concern.
And who promotes that best—best proves his duty."

—Havard.

While the present King appeared occasionally at public functions when he was a student at Cambridge, particularly if the late King George the Fifth or the present Duke of Windsor could not be present for one reason or another, yet his public duties did not really commence until he had completed his courses at Trinity College. In other words, he was not engaged in national duties up to this stage of his life because he was on military service, engaged in training or studies at school and college, or otherwise he was unable to carry on due to the serious ailment which had handicapped him and curtailed his activities for some years. However, upon his return from Cambridge he began to appear quite often before the people and his duties became more and more important.

It was not long before the people began to recognize in Prince Albert the same qualities and characteristics that differentiated the late King George the Fifth from other sovereigns because the young Prince Albert seemed to be a reflection of their beloved monarch in both mind and heart. It was not hard to detect that Prince Albert intended to follow the example of his father, showing the same enthusiasm and energy in all welfare movements that aimed to improve the conditions of living and working for the great masses. He hated social pretense and snobbery. He had no particular love for formalities or anything which emphasized social inequalities amongst the inhabitants of the land. He loved everything which stressed the true worth of simplicity, honesty and contentment in work and play.

Naturally, Prince Albert began to attract attention right from the start, and although he was only the second son of the King, this sound impression brought him into the limelight quite often as a popular representative of Royalty.

He earned this popularity right from the first day that he arrived in London from Trinity College in Cambridge. His first action was to assume the responsibility of president of the important Industrial Welfare Society whose office was not far from Buckingham Palace. This movement appealed to him because it gave him an opportunity to learn at first hand the conditions of work and pay of the man and woman engaged in industry; it allowed him to find out for himself what the masses were thinking and doing; it afforded him an excellent chance to discover the proper schemes to better the conditions of the common man and woman who had to earn a living in workshop, factory, mine, etc., with the result that proper action could be taken to prevent accidents, to establish the right provisions for protecting the health, pension requirements, or other things which were necessary for a happy existence. Of course, this was not the only movement that interested Prince Albert. He originated the idea of a boys camp where youngsters of all classes could mingle together freely in order to better understand each other's viewpoints on life. He encouraged the numerous charitable and social welfare organizations. He admired and aided the Scouts. He was an enthusiastic supporter of all forms of athletics, particularly the Players' Field Association, and this accounts for his great popularity with the young people of the land.

Pope Pius XI and Canadian Rockies

In his earlier days the late Pope Pius XI achieved considerable fame as a mountaineer and scaled most of the well-known Alpine peaks. After his accession to the Papal Throne he one day told a party of Canadians visiting in Rome that he had always been interested in the Canadian Rockies and that at one time he had hoped to visit them. There were several mountains there, he said, that he would very much have liked to climb.

The fates directed his path to other heights culminating in the Chair of St. Peter, but the story was brought back to Canada and at the direction of Sir Edward Beatty a collection of photographs of the Rockies was bound together in a handsome portfolio of white calf-skin and presented to His Holiness with the compliments of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Sir Edward received a most courteous and kindly acknowledgment which is now preserved in the Company's archives.

Unity Council Notes.

STRATHMORE: March 13: The Gleichen provincial constituency will have a Unity candidate in the next general election and residents of that constituency of all political parties will be canvassed to support such a candidate. This was unanimously decided at a meeting of representatives of practically all polling divisions at a meeting here March 9th.

Don J. McKinnon, Carseland farmer, was the choice of the meeting as chairman of the Gleichen Constituency Unity Association formed during the afternoon, and was later chosen as the representative of the residents of this constituency on the Unity Council which is charged with the task of developing a policy to be placed before the people prior to election date.

The 175 voters present heard John I. McFarland chairman of the provisional Unity Council, define the issues before Alberta
today, and appeal for harmony in meeting the issues in place of ineffective political division.

VULCAN: March 13: Rally of all citizens of Little Bow provincial constituency favoring united political action at the next election will be called early in April, to consider the setting up of a constituency organization in support of the Unity Movement. A committee consisting of businessmen, farmers, and farm women, to undertake the responsibility of calling such a public gathering was created following a discussion here last
